

The Barbara Pym Society

2010 North American Conference
Boston & Cambridge, Mass.
19-21 March 2010

ACCOMMODATIONS

There are several hotels and B&Bs quite near the conference venue -- see below for links. The Inn at Harvard is directly across the street from the conference site, but there are other options near Harvard Square that are less expensive. It always pays to check the online travel web sites for discounts; kayak.com will let you search for rooms on Hotwire, Hotels.com, Expedia, Priceline, and Travelocity simultaneously. Also since March is definitely the off season in Boston you may be able to get better deals as the date gets nearer.

Nearby B&Bs include Irving House at Harvard, Harding House, Parkside on Ellery, and A Bed & Breakfast in Cambridge. One of the best deals is the John Jeffries House, which is on Beacon Hill right on the Red Line, 3 stops/10 min from Harvard Square and a short walk from our Friday night venue, the Church of the Advent.

There are also many hotels that are just 2 or 3 stops away on the MBTA subway Red Line, either in Cambridge (Mariott, Kendall, Marlowe, Royal Sonesta near the Kendall-MIT stop) or just across the river in Boston (John Jeffries House, Holiday Inn and Liberty near the Charles-MGH stop). If you are looking on a map, the Barker Center is at the intersection of Quincy and Harvard Streets near Mass. Ave, opposite the southeast corner of Harvard Yard in Cambridge.

Harvard Square Accommodations

Cambridge B&Bs