

The Barbara Pym Society

2018 ANNUAL CONFERENCE

31st August–2nd September 2018

St Hilda's College, Oxford

Food & Drink in the World of Barbara Pym

Barbara Pym featured food and drink throughout her novels. So, did she give a realistic picture of what people in Britain were cooking and eating in the post-war years? Were there regional and class differences? How about eating out and eating in? How much has cooking and eating changed? What about shopping for food? Could you recognise today's food and drink from Barbara's novels?

Saturday Panel Members

Barbara Pym Society member Laura Shapiro will open the first session with her views on food in Pym's life and work. Her new book What She Ate: Six Remarkable Women and the Food That Tells Their Stories examines six famous women (including Barbara Pym) through the lens of food and cooking—what they ate and how their attitudes toward food offer surprising new insights into their lives. She was an award-winning writer at Newsweek for more than fifteen years and her articles have appeared in many publications, including The New York Times, Rolling Stone, Granta and Gourmet. Laura is the author of three classic books of culinary history. She lives in New York City.

Dr. Perri Klass, another American member of the Barbara Pym Society, is Professor of Journalism and Pediatrics at New York University and Medical Director of 'Reach Out and Read', a national childhood literacy program. She has a weekly column in the New York Times. Passionate about Pym, she gave a memorable talk on drinks and drinking in Pym's work at the 2013 North American conference. She has also done a great deal of writing about food and travel (and knitting!) and won a James Beard journalism award for food writing.

Jill Norman is an award-winning editor, publisher and author of books on food. She published authors such as Elizabeth David for Penguin Books and then started writing about food herself. In 2001 she published the 564-page New Penguin Cookery Book, and in 2014 she received the Lifetime Achievement Award from The Guild of Food Writers. She writes frequently on food and wine and is a regular speaker on gastronomy at literary and food festivals.

Paul Levy is a US-born food writer who lives and works here in the UK. With others he coined the word 'Foodie' and co-wrote The Official Foodie Handbook (1984). He has won many British and American food writing and journalism prizes, including commendations in the national British Press Awards in 1985 and 1987. He was formerly the Observer's food and restaurant correspondent.

Kate Young is an Australian-born, London-based food writer and cook. After moving to the UK in 2009, she started her blog, thelittlelibrarycafe.com, which now has readers all over the world and is regularly featured in the Guardian. She's the author of The Little Library Cookbook

Jane Peyton is a writer, public speaker, alcoholic drinks expert, tour guide, radio & TV broadcaster, and events producer. She has won several awards for her work including Drinks Educator of the Year 2016, Outstanding Individual Achievement in Beer 2017, and Lifetime Achievement in Beer 2018. She is the author of eight books including Beer o' Clock, and Drink: A Tippler's Miscellany. Beer is a particular passion and Jane was Britain's first Beer Sommelier of the Year (2014). She is the driving force behind Britain's national beer day celebrations, Beer Day Britain.
